New Delhi: The Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) has onboarded satellite-based internet provider Starlink for customer verification, it said in a statement on Wednesday. Starlink Satellite Communication Pvt. Ltd. has been appointed as a Sub-Authentication User Agency and Sub-eKYC User Agency.

Promoted by US tech billionaire Elon Musk, Starlink is the world's largest space-based communication company, with a presence in over 125 countries. It received a license to operate satellite-based broadband services in India in June. Starlink will now use Aadhaar authentication to verify customers—a move UIDAI says will make the process smooth, secure, and easy.

Calling the partnership a "powerful synergy," UIDAI said global satellite technology powered by Aadhaar e-KYC will enable seamless user onboarding while ensuring regulatory compliance. The collaboration is expected to bring high-speed internet to households, businesses, and institutions across the country. Aadhaar authentication by users will remain voluntary, in accordance with existing rules.

"The use of Aadhaar authentication by a global satellite internet provider demonstrates the scalability and reliability of India's digital infrastructure. It highlights how Aadhaar can enable innovation in service delivery while ensuring transparency and accountability," UIDAI added.

UIDAI also noted that Aadhaar's face authentication solution is gaining momentum due to its ease of use and convenience for Aadhaar number holders.

The Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) has onboarded Elon Musk-owned global satellite internet provider Starlink Satellite Communication Private Limited, allowing the company to use Aadhaar authentication for verifying its customers, Ministry of Electronics and IT announced on Wednesday.

Officials said this step will make the process of customer verification smooth, secure and hassle-free.

Under the arrangement, Starlink will use Aadhaar e-KYC to onboard new users. This means customers can complete their verification quickly and paperlessly while staying compliant with Know Your Customer (KYC) norms.

UIDAI clarified that Aadhaar authentication will be voluntary, as per existing rules.
