

UIDAI says denial of govt benefits over lack of Aadhaar is violation of norms

Business \(/category/business\) PTI \(/author/pti\) Aug, 10 2017 08:57:38 IST

Share 33

Tweet (<https://twitter.com/share>)

(whatsapp://send?text=UIDAI says denial of govt benefits over lack of Aadhaar is violation of norms - http://www.firstpost.com/business/uidai-says-denial-of-govt-benefits-over-lack-of-aadhaar-is-violation-of-norms-3913349.html)

New Delhi: Denial of government benefits because of lack of Aadhaar or problems in its authentication is violation of norms and the violators should be punished, UIDAI CEO Ajay Bhushan Pandey said on Wednesday.

The Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) -- the agency responsible for issuing the 12-digit number -- termed the assertion by some activists who doubted Aadhaar removing bogus beneficiaries as "distorted". It went on to term the activists' claims targeting Aadhaar as statements made with "malafide intent".

"Their inferences arise from a skewed approach and draws misconstrued interpretations to pass off incorrect assumptions on Aadhaar," Pandey said in an e-mailed statement. He termed Aadhaar as a technology for people's empowerment and not as a tool for exclusion or denial.

Stating that so far over 116 crore people have the 12-digit unique identification number and almost 99 percent adults have been covered under it, Pandey said the Aadhaar Act itself "mandates that not even one person be denied of benefits for the lack of Aadhaar". He said regulations too cast a "responsibility" on the agency requiring the identification number to enrol its beneficiary and provide the individual with benefits till the person is given Aadhaar.

The Act also provides for statutory protection to those who are unable to authenticate because of worn-out fingerprints or other reasons such as technical faults.

Pandey clarified that in case a person has difficulty in getting fingerprints authenticated on a machine, he and she has the option to provide a copy of the Aadhaar card and can receive the benefits till the system is rectified.

"The field agencies have been accordingly instructed through the notifications issued by the government. In spite of this, if a person is denied because he does not have Aadhaar or he is unable to biometrically authenticate, it is undisputedly a violation of instructions issued by the government and such violators have to be punished," he said.

To claim that Aadhaar is responsible for denial of benefits is nothing but a "misconstrued fact presented with malafide intent", he said. "... such denial-related offences at the local level have to be dealt by local law enforcements," Pandey pointed out.

Asserting that distribution of benefits through Aadhaar authentication makes it harder to fudge records and deny genuine beneficiaries, he pointed out that overall the system brings greater accountability and empowerment as it makes impersonation and denial of rights more difficult.

Published Date: Aug 10, 2017 08:55 am | Updated Date: Aug 10, 2017 08:57 am

PROMOTED STORIES

Grow online traffic with targeted campaigns
COLOMBIA

70% बचाएँ कार बीमा renewal करने पर
ET INSURE

Understanding National Pension Scheme.
TomorrowMakers

5 reasons to visit Virat Kohli's restaurant.
LiveInStyle

Cash from trash: Get more out of your waste
Extra Carbon

Help save this 4-year-old girl from Cancer!
Milaap

गंजेपन को कहें अलविदा: 1 घरेलू नुस्खा अपनाकर पाएँ सिर पर बाल
Refolium

P2P lending is here! Earn returns as high as 25% p.a.
Faircent

MORE FROM FIRSTPOST

Pranav Mohanlal's film Aadi goes on floors

FIRSTPOST.

Watch: Nepal hosts gay pride parade demanding equal rights

Over 70 TN fishermen released by SL Navy

Dow chalks up eighth record close in a row | Reuters

Also See

close

